Caroline Center Welcomes New Staff

For Immediate Release – Caroline Center, a nonprofit workforce development organization providing a tuition-free education and career and life skills training for women experiencing poverty in Baltimore City, announces the appointment of the following new staff:

- Victoria Cofield-Aber, LCSW-C, is serving as Caroline Center's social service director. Ms. Cofield-Aber brings considerable professional experience in clinical counseling and supervision to her new role ranging from working as a private clinician to serving in administrative roles for educational systems, colleges, and universities.
- Barbara Gough, MSN, RN, will serve Caroline Center as nursing assistant program coordinator. Ms. Gough is an adjunct faculty member at Notre Dame of Maryland University and has substantial experience in the field of nursing, particularly in the areas of public and occupational health, health and wellness, and nursing education.
- Caroline Center welcomes Kylee Johnson, B.S. as the center's AmeriCorps volunteer. Ms. Johnson is enrolled in the master's program in human service administration at the University of Baltimore.
- Yvonne McKnight, CPhT, joins Caroline Center in the role of pharmacy technician program coordinator. Ms. McKnight brings more than 20 years of experience as a certified pharmacy technician working in major hospitals and as a pharmacy technician career skills instructor.
- Robin Stewart will serve Caroline Center as administrative assistant/receptionist. Ms. Stewart is a Caroline Center alumna (2000) who has pursued additional studies in psychology at Notre Dame of Maryland University.

Inspired by the School Sisters of Notre Dame, Caroline Center's holistic approach to education prepares women in Baltimore who are experiencing poverty for meaningful careers with the opportunity for advancement. Caroline Center strives to empower every woman to reach the fullness of her potential, thus creating a future of hope for herself and her family.
